

'Ultraclean' Bench-Top Ultrasonic Tanks

Ultrasonic cleaning, utilising high-frequency sound waves to create mechanical agitation within the cleaning medium, has long been accepted as a highly effective method of component cleaning. The process produces a deep cleaning action without stress or damage to components.

Our range of 'Ultraclean' bench-top tanks brings the power of ultrasonic cleaning in a convenient, portable format. 'Ultraclean' bench-top tanks are designed for use with water and biodegradable detergents. Manufactured entirely from stainless steel, they are completely self-contained and offer digital temperature control and process timing as well as a manual drain valve and essential safety features such as low-liquid level protection.
